

Warning: Homeostasis is NOT a permanent condition

You have worked on your health diligently: asking questions, reading, learning about your particular health issue, taking hands full of herbs, vitamins, and homeopathics, exercising, carrying your good water wherever you go.

To no avail; the vibrant health for which you've been searching continues to evade you. Although you see definite improvement, something is missing; your health issues show little sign of budging. And you wonder if even with the lifestyle changes you've made, you may still need to be concerned about the statistics that show that apparently even healthy people can be faced with life-threatening diseases. Everyday examples are easy to find: the strong and healthy beekeeper who died of liver failure (a buildup of years of poisonous bee stings); the 70 year-old pastor who was never ill, claimed by cancer in a matter of months (toxic residue from the termite "tenting" of his home 30 years before). In both of these cases accumulation of natural poisons or synthetic toxins were held at bay by strong constitutions. Alas, critical mass at last triggered the surfacing of long-ago health challenges hidden at "core".

We know that the human body was created with an amazing set of checks and balances with their prime duty to take us back to "homeostasis" and beyond through the infinite energy fields to radical wellness. The human system is always trying to bring itself back to normal function. Sometimes it fails despite all our years of doing everything "right". For the clueless ones it's "too little, too late". An arsenal of the most potent drugs and procedures may temporarily prolong the length of a life but never the quality. For others, going natural makes more sense.

Treating "symptoms" vs. finding "root cause"

I had to make that choice myself at age 50 when a hysterectomy was recommended for hemorrhaging and huge tumors on the uterus. I chose to go natural and six months later had, I thought, licked both conditions. Twenty-two years ago I hadn't known about root cause – why the tumors and bleeding? Intuited scanning brought to light the fact that I'd spent thirteen of the first eighteen years of my life downwind from a plastics factory in a suburb of Buffalo, New York. And although at fifty I'd cleared the symptoms, the toxins stored in my energy field had never been addressed, mainly because I didn't know about the energy field. Clearing root cause is necessary if radical wellness, a new way to think of homeostasis, is to be reached. Through intuited research we found some answers.¹

Richard, at 76, had been told he needed immediate kidney dialysis. We were able to intuit the root cause as Repair Loop/immune system damage at about age nineteen. He had a strong constitution and chose to do a four-week vibrational cleanse using subtle energy medicine. Four weeks later his doctor was surprised to see his creatin level was down and gave him an appointment for two months later to re-check. No mention of dialysis. However, because he was still using his very acidic medications, he started to experience acid build up with a negative effect on his homeostasis. Richard's daughter told us recently that her father was using an energy formula daily to clear the toxic residue of those meds until he could be weaned off by his doctor.

John no longer needs the insulin shots he's been giving himself for four years. His Repair Loop/immune system was damaged years before due to man-made toxins by inhalation, which affected his pancreas. Once again, energy medicine was able to get at the root cause and in just four weeks. John, who was one of the lucky 90% of the population with a strong constitution, had a fast turn around.

Keeping tabs on your health

Is wellness a permanent condition? Unfortunately not. The same factors that damage the Repair Loop are part and parcel of our daily lives: from the body trauma of surgery and dental procedures, sports injuries and accidents to the subtleties of emotional trauma. Chemical toxins including medications and the chaotic electric of a technological environment, as well as "solar flares", also take a frightening toll on the function of the human body.

The rub is the fact that the human system was designed to "read" and respond to the natural poisons of, for instance, the bite of a rattlesnake or spider, but fails to read/understand toxins of a synthetic nature such as plastics inhaled over the years. Unable to deal with the unknown, these toxins are stored in organs and systems to cause havoc at a later time.²

Energetic medicine has made significant headway in the detoxification of both man-made toxins, "chaotic electric" and even "galactic radiation". It now has the capability of neutralizing the negative frequencies that herbs and homeopathics have failed to reach. In a modern world these are the issues we face that can prevent even an intact Repair Loop/immune system from its role in bringing the body back to normal function.

Once wellness is gained it must be protected through constant vigilance. Being aware of your environment so you can monitor what goes in your body on a moment to moment basis is an absolute necessity. As some wise person once said, “Your body is talking to you— are you listening!”

Of prime importance is keeping the cells on a daily detox schedule with a comprehensive cellular cleanse that deals with Repair Loop/immune system concerns. Purified systems react to toxic input with astonishing rapidity; the two situations that can quickly re-toxify the cells and often with disastrous consequences are overdosing on medications after cleansing when organs and systems are just beginning to function normally and dealing with new health issues by returning to the use of harsh and toxic medications especially antibiotics and psychotropics when safer and more natural means are readily available.³

Life comes at us in subtle, and sometimes not so subtle, ways. And even though we may have a strong constitution with corresponding good health, there will be times that the body may seem to fail us, forcing us to succumb to disease care, put into place in the absence of real answers.

Looking beyond symptoms, the healthcare field continues to search for root cause such as the levels of man-made toxins and electric, with which we’ve never before had to deal. We also need ways of dealing with ill health that are faster, easier and far less traumatic than western medicine with answers for maintaining wellness. The hardest part for us continues to be discovering the root cause of health issues rather than settling for a quick fix by treating symptoms.

And now that we know that when health is compromised in any way, the energy fields surrounding us can leach their aberrant energies into the physical body, we have an added challenge. Energy medicine is one of the few modalities, allopathic or natural, that can deal with such a challenge. We have learned that by neutralizing negative frequencies the cells can self-repair to restore homeostasis— and beyond.
